

SILVER IN CALIFORNIA.

Silver Leagues are being organized in California to further the cause of the American Bimetallic party. A State Central Committee has been organized and among its members are ex-United States Senator Cornelius Cole, who advocated the election of the Populist ticket last November, Enoch Pepper, Chairman of the Populist Central Committee of Los Angeles, Colonel John B. Berry, who was collector of the Port of San Diego under Harrison's Administration, L. A. Sheldon, ex-Governor of Louisiana, formerly a Republican, John Love, a Republican capitalist, J. A. Farnsworth, a prominent merchant, and Alva Udell, a prominent real estate man. Mr. Udell is now visiting Nevada. He says the silver cause is gaining ground daily in Southern California, and Republicans, Democrats and Populists are joining the Silver Leagues by hundreds. He says Southern California is certain to give a majority for the Silver party at the next election. Farmers and orchardists see that the price of their products are governed to a great extent by the price of silver and they are getting to be most enthusiastic advocates of free coinage.

The Home Change.

"When the children were informed of the changes they were at first unable to comprehend the signification of the news, but after the truth dawned upon them, they burst into uncontrollable grief and would not be comforted."—News.

Men who will wantonly cast such a cloud upon a number of children whose short lives have already been subjected to an unusual amount of suffering are little short of monsters.—Enterprise.

The above conveys an impression not substantiated by the facts. There is nothing whatever to show that Mr. Beebe will not treat the home children with the same kindly consideration shown by his predecessor. Whenever Mr. Beebe shows that he is unfit for the position, criticisms in his course of action will be in order. To attempt to clumsily prejudice a public officer with the public simply because he is not the choice of certain newspapers, is unfair and malicious journalism excusable by no present status of the situation.

Under the Ban.

We understand that the editor of the Reveille is to be excluded from the meetings of the suffrage in the future because he has on several occasions attended such meetings and reported a few of the things that transpired there. It is quite remarkable that ladies should be parties to proceedings aimed at giving them equal political rights with men that they are ashamed to have published in the newspapers. It is hard to understand how they expect to educate the people to their way of thinking, and at the same time refuse permission to have their proceedings published.

It is too bad to have public meetings in the County Court House, the proceedings of which are not suitable for publication in the local paper. We have heard of creatures that though they never hid from the world when the head was covered, but we all know that the head is only a small part to cover.

The exclusion will do us no harm, personally, but will deprive the community, now and then, of the public news of the town. The ladies ought to feel thankful that everything said and done has not been published.—Reveille.

The Evening Post of San Francisco has introduced type setting machines in California. The Linotype machine is used, and from a typographical view the paper is perfect. Now that the move has been made the other Frisco papers will not be long in following suit. It is a hard blow to the compositors, but this is an age of invention, and improvements must take their place.

Business is so dull in the New York stock market that papers which usually fill their space with quotations and equally lively and interesting matter find room now to print poetry. The New York Investigator is a case in point, and a fair criticism of the verse it prints would be to say that it is nearly as bad as business in the New York stock market.

A Kansas woman has applied to the Governor for a bounty because she has raised thirteen children. She is certainly entitled to a bounty, but unfortunately the government has never offered any such inducement for rearing large families. Canada does better than the United States in encouraging native-born population.

The San Jose Mercury says: "As the Democrat officials and employees at the Carson Mint are all innocent of having carried away that $50,000 worth of bullion, the inference is that it must have been the work of the famous Carson giant, whose footsteps have been seen in that vicinity."
